DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1) The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2) Claims 24-27, 32-33 and 35-39⁺⁴¹⁻⁴⁴ are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hockley (5699880).

In re claims 24, 27, 32-33 and 36-38, Hockley provides a housing portion (30) comprising a first component adapted to be attached to a vehicle structure (22); an overstroke sensor (32, 34); an operating shaft (18) that actuates a brake mechanism rotating about a pivot axis relative to the housing portion; and the operating shaft cooperates with the overstroke sensor to identify an overstroke condition.

IN re claims 25-26, please note that element (30) can be considered a housing portion because it overlays member 18. Note element 30 does not rotate.

In re claim 35, 39, please note that sensor members (32, 34) is mounted through the housing.

In re claims 41-44, please note that element 30 is attached to a brake housing 14, which substantially encloses the brake mechanism.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3) The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4) Claims 28-31 and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hockley (5699880) in view of White et al (H2026).

In re claim 28-31 and 40, Hockley et al lacks the teaching of generating a signal supplied to a controller. Please note that element 36 can be considered a tab portion.

White et al teaches an overstroke sensor or switch (57) that generates a signal that is communicated to a controller (61).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have provided the sensor of Hockley et al with a signal sent to a controller as taught by White et al merely to prevent the need for manual inspection of the indicator.

Response to Arguments

5) Applicant's arguments filed 11/14/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Hockley lacks the teaching of the overstroke sensor mounted to a housing portion. Clearly the overstroke sensor of Hockley is mounted with a bolt 44 to a housing portion 12 and 14, and further it is maintained that element 30 can be considered a housing portion. Elements 12 and 14 can be considered a housing and the sensor is connected through the member 22 to the housing members 12 and

14. Please note figure 6 where the sensor is mounted directly to the housing for the brake.

Conclusion

6) THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
